

ENVIRONMENTAL STEWARDSHIP

About four in five (79%) rural residents believe their community is a good steward of the environment, while 18 percent do not agree. Urban residents are slightly more likely to say environmental stewardship is agreeable.

Community Is Good Steward of the Environment

All rural regions show somewhat diminished contentment with environmental stewardship since 2013, with those in the Southwest showing the sharpest decline (down 17%).

Good Steward of the Environment

